ECCE UPDATE: TRANSFORMING CREATIVITY INTO SUSTAINABILITY - EMPOWERING CIRCULAR ENTREPRENEURS FOR A GREENER FUTURE!

The project "Empowering Creative Circular Entrepreneurs", the acronym ECCE, tried to improve the skills of creatives and those who train them to accept the principles of the circular economy as a key tool for adapting their business to a more sustainable model that reduces costs, but also waste while protecting and opening of jobs. In addition to skill enhancement, ECCE creates a ripple effect of positive change by instilling a passion for sustainable practices, nurturing a generation of entrepreneurs who not only thrive economically but also serve as ambassadors for environmental stewardship in the global business landscape.

We are proud to announce that the Erasmus+ project called „Circular Creatives“ led by Roscommon and joined by our partners joined by AKEP (Greece), Momentum (Ireland), VUS (Croatia), Global Impact Grid (Germany) and EUEI (Denmark) was successfully finished. Empowering Creative Circular Entrepreneurs (ECCE) was conceived with this understanding in mind, that the creative industry will not return to its pre-pandemic peak until a new method of supporting and upskilling creatives for modern, sustainable business and future of employment needs are introduced. The project partners agreed that re-skilling and upskilling is needed to help self-employed and unemployed creatives to achieve circularity in their profession.
